Sec'y to the Managers—BALTIMORE.

The official list of yesterday's drawing of the MONUMENT LOTTERY will be found on the opposite page—No prize came out higher than of One Hundred Dolls.

Tickets and Shares ready.

The tickets and shares in the GRAND STATE LOTTERY No. 3. are now ready at COHEN'S OFFICE, where the great capitals of 100,000 dolls. 20, 000—10,000—5000 &c. &c. were sold in the last scheme. Our distant friends have now the opportunity of procuring tickets and shares in the new scheme at the original rate of Nine dolls.—An advance will soon take place—The scheme will be found on the 4th page of this day's Register.

CAUTION TO DISTANT ADVENTURERS.

Direction of Letters.—We beg permission to request our friends and customers residing in distant places, to be particular in directing their letters to J. I. COHEN JR. No 114 Market St. BALTIMORE. It will thereby prevent mistakes in being sent to another office, the name of which on paper, appears similar, and to which we understand, several letters have lately been directed on the supposition that the name was ours.

Progress of Gen. La Fayette.

Our limits do not even permit us to trace the route of the "Nation's Guest" through all the towns and cities to which he has been called by the unanimous calls and invitations from every class of our fellow citizens.—The General travels expeditiously—on the roads no charges are made—all is free—food, lodging, gates, bridges, &c. &c. His reception into BOSTON exceeded in point of brilliancy, enthusiasm and respect, any occurrence which has ever taken place in that city. It is computed that there were no less than 70 to 100,000 persons then present. After visiting various towns in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, the General returned to NEW-YORK on the 6th inst. where on the 10th inst. was to have been given a most splendid fete on the occasion at Castle Garden.

At PHILADELPHIA, splendid preparations are making for his reception. The escort will probably present the most numerous and imposing cavalcade ever witnessed in that part of the country. The procession will consist of the troops and volunteer infantry of the city and vicinity—those from the counties of Bucks, Montgomery, Chester, Delaware, Northampton, &c.—the troops from Woodbury, Salem, Bridgetown, (N. J.) and other towns adjacent. The horse alone, it is believed, will amount to 10 or 15,000; and the whole cavalcade, including the vast assemblage of the citizens, must necessarily be immense. A grand Civic Arch, opposite the State House, is to be erected 100 feet in span, and 60 feet high.—A general illumination of the city is also to take place on the first evening after his arrival.

The preparations in BALTIMORE are in brilliant train—and we anticipate that we shall be secondary to no city in the Union, in our offerings of welcome, &c. The General is expected in Baltimore about the latter end of the month.

Colonel FRANCIS S. HUGER, of South Carolina, who distinguished himself by his efforts to release General LA FAYETTE from the castle of Olmutz, has arrived at Philadelphia in the ship Carolinian from Charleston.

A Boston paper mentions that it was rumoured there that the Minister of France in this country had received orders not to extend any civility to Gen. La Fayette, and adds that the French and English Consuls had not paid their respects to him.

General La Fayette has accepted the invitation of the Volunteer Companies of the borough of Norfolk and City of Richmond, tendered in a letter of the Governor of Virginia, to meet them at the town of York in Virginia, on the 19th of October, in order to celebrate the anniversary of the surrender at that place of the British army to the combined armies of America and France. It is proposed in the Richmond Enquirer, that the Volunteers of every quarter of the commonwealth convenient to Yorktown, should rendezvous there on the same day.

Mount Vernon.—The Alexandria Herald states that the plain, but neat and romantic mansion and sepulchre of our illustrious WASHINGTON, will have undergone a thorough repair against the arrival of the "Nation's Guest" in the District.

A letter dated at New-York on the 24th inst. from Gen. Brown, who had been appointed one of the Committee of Arrangement for the reception of Gen. La Fayette at the city of Washington, states that the General would be in that city about the 1st of October.

ANECDOTES.—A gentleman proceeding to Boston on the same day that LA FAYETTE had set out for that city from New-York, addressed a respectable old woman at one of the Turnpike gates thus:—

"Well madam, I suppose you are very glad Gen. La Fayette has come, as you must have made oceans of money to-day at the gate?" The old lady felt indignant at the remark. "Sir," she replied, "you must know that the General and his friends go through this gate free of toll; and I should like to have him pass a thousand times!"—"Oho, then your gates are free now?"—"Yes," replied the Connecticut dame, without a moment's hesitation, "for such men as La Fayette, but not for those who come so far behind him." This last remark quickly brought a York shilling out of my pocket for toll, and as you may well suppose, I hastened to get out of her sight, and the range of her wit.

A little Yankee urchin on the road, who was running with all his might, to reach the next village in hopes of seeing the General, stopped and enquired of me if the Markiss La Fayette was going to dine there. Feeling a little waggish at the moment, I told him that Gen. La Fayette carried his dinner in his pocket, and that it was bread and cheese. The little fellow's eyes were as big as a large knot hole—"Aye!" said he, "I guess he aynt going to dine on bread and cheese neither.—We can give him something in our state better than bread and cheese—I guess, I know."—And on he pushed at his utmost speed.

A gentleman while in conversation with him, observed that "he spoke the English language remarkably well" "And why should I not," replied the General, "being an American just returned from a long visit to Europe."

DESCRIPTION OF LA FAYETTE.

The General is now about 67 years old, and must have been blessed with a good constitution to have borne so well his severe and long confinement, and the sufferings incident to a change of fortune. His mind appears to have been but little impaired, and retains much of its original vigor and vivacity—his memory is very retentive; he is at once familiar, and he enters into the details of the war of our revolution with great accuracy.—He is of fine portly figure, about 5 feet 11 inches high, has strong and full features, prominent eye brows, but his fine forehead is concealed by a wig—his manner is graceful and dignified; and he very soon puts his company perfectly at ease. There is always great mildness in his countenance which in conversation is brightened by a smile, which carries with it evidence that it proceeds from the heart. He speaks the English language with fluency, and when animated, with eloquence; his pronunciation alone betraying that he is by birth a Frenchman. He is lame, but not so much so as to impede his progress, as he walks tolerably fast, and gets into his carriage without assistance—his dress is that of the plainest citizen. I have never seen him in his uniform, and have understood he does not wear it now—but I cannot describe his countenance; when he is interested in conversation it is then the physiognomist will exclaim, here is the good as well as the great man—here is the virtuous citizen and the gallant soldier. He loves the people of the United States, and well does he deserve their love.

The Massachusetts Bank in Boston, one of the most respectable in the state, has agreed to reduce the interest on discounts made by them to five per cent. per annum.

By a late report concerning the primary schools in Boston, it appears that the whole number of these schools is 47, containing 2,633 scholars—They are all instructed by females and divided into 7 districts.

A Dutiful Son.—A jockey in New Haven, wishing to make an advantageous display of a horse that he was desirous of selling to a by-stander, placed his boy upon the back of the beast, ordering him to "ride him round a short distance."—The boy, though well instructed to his trade, unfortunately, in this instance, knew not whether the horse was already his father's or yet to be bargained for; being anxious, therefore, to learn the will of his father, he stopped after riding a short distance, and inquired with a loud voice, "Father, shall I ride this horse to buy or to sell?"
